

LICHTMOND

Endless Moments

Tired of it all I turn my mind to something
Something which cannot be denied
I break and I fall in line to find that one thing
One thing still breathing deep inside

Time after time
I find that I'm aware I'm holding on to Every little second that we shared
These endless moments
Time after time
So near or far to relive every day we cared
These endless moments
These endless moments

Pushing through worlds to find that old familiar
Feeling of comfort that I'd missed
Search across endless skies and lifetimes till I
Touch upon every kiss I've kissed
